Foreword

It has been said that the college years are the best years of our lives. This has been said of almost every phase of human progress.

There are the simple, and therefore immense, joys of childhood, and the stirring and exciting self discovery of adolescence. In the future we can anticipate the confidence and security of middle age, and the contentment of retirement.

So too, we have pleasant memories of the college years. We may fondly recall the many achievements which have come our way during this time.

But it is not the pleasant memories of which the best years are made. It is the fact that what we have learned during these best years will make all the coming years better ones.

It is the purpose of the 1957 Ranger to present a true picture of life at Regis College, but in our feeble attempts we realize that that which has made these the best years of our lives cannot be photographed or described with words, for that elusive element is living the life of Regis.

In these pages we hope to remind those who have had this privilege of some pleasant occurrences which are a part of Regis life. To those who have not had this privilege, we wish to convey some idea of why it is that these years spent at Regis are truly the best years of our lives.

Dedication

Teacher, scientist, mathematician,
Theologian, philosopher, seismologist;
A quiet man,
Whose many accomplishments are overshadowed
Only by his humility
And willingness to use his many talents
For the benefit of others.
Explaining the intricate theories
Of nuclear physics,
Or counseling some young man
On almost any matter,
He is always the teacher,
Always the friend,
Always the Jesuit priest.

It is with the deepest gratitude for many things which he has done for each Regis student that we proudly dedicate the 1957 RANGER to Father Joseph Downey, S.J.

FATHER DOWNEY IN REGIS SEISMOLOGICAL STATION WHICH HE MAINTAINS.

Archbishop Urban J. Vehr

My sincere congratulations to the Regis college graduates of '57. With the precious opportunities given you by reason of your educational background, you must be ready to assume the responsibilities of adult leadership. Time and Experience will mature and develop your theoretic information, and may success follow your endeavors in your chosen fields of labor. Remain loyal to the high ideals of conduct your religious education has given you.

Assist actively in civic movements that promise the betterment of your community and the amelioration of poverty and distress. May Almighty God bless the years ahead and may your life and work merit His commendation.

Urban J. Vehr

President's Message

Expansion has become a reality at Regis College but it is not physical expansion that determines the worth of a college or university.

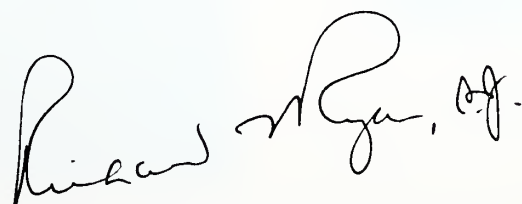

Only with the passing of years and the accomplishments of its graduates can an educational institution measure its successes and its failures. Buildings can add comforts and conveniences. They can provide additional facilities to enroll more students. They can increase the monetary value of a school and enrich the beauty of its campus.

But for all their concrete and steel and glass they cannot add one fraction to the true value of a school. They cannot develop a thinking, articulate, responsible man, cognizant of his obligations to God and his fellow men.

Too many people regard graduation from a college or a university as the termination of their education. In reality, it is merely the end of one phase of what should be a lifelong process of intellectual and spiritual growth and maturity. It is the end of the formal phase of education. It is the beginning of another, equally important phase. In the years ahead, you must learn to use the facts, ideals, and abilities which you have acquired, and you must learn to use them wisely.

We have endeavored to provide you with the tools you will need to fashion your salvation and mold yourself into a constructive, responsible citizen. We have also endeavored to instill motivation for the use of these tools. "Seek you first the kingdom of God."

As we watch you leave Regis we can take pride in the knowledge that the wide-spread materialism and godlessness of the world today will not find a place in your lives. May God prosper you always.

One of the largest organizations on the Regis campus, the St. John Berchmans Society provides servers for the many Masses each day. Besides these regular Masses, the Society has men serving at Benediction, Stations of the Cross, and special Masses whenever needed. Under the direction of the Rev. Thomas F. Singleton S.J., the Society's objective is that no Mass be said on the campus without having an acolyte present to assist the priest. It gives the student members a chance to better assist at all religious exercises. The integrity of the Society is shown by its large membership.

ALL SET FOR A BIG DAY ON THE SNOW-COVERED SLOPES

WICK, WANEBO, AND GORMLEY PAUSE FOR A REST

Among the more active groups on campus, the boys with the slats have complemented the school with their antics on the slopes. Weekend trips to Arapahoe Basin, Winter Park, Berthoud Pass, and Aspen are always in order after a long week in the classrooms. Joint trips with Loretto to the mountains find all the ski areas cluttered with "snow bunnies," "trail-apes," and "schussboomers" of all manner and description. All you need is the determination, the boards, and a pair of strong underpinnings to become one of the arrived.

Aquinas Academy

The initiation of what could develop into a regionally famous organization, the Aquinas Academy, is devoted to discussing the philosophies of St. Thomas and antagonistic philosophies. Moderated by the eloquent Harry

R. Klocker, S.J., the Academy is composed of members from Regis, Loretto Heights, the Air Force Academy, and Denver University.

These pictures are of activities of the club. The activities were climaxed by an informal debate featuring Prof. Julius Schultz, professor of philosophy at Ft. Lewis, A&M., and an exponent of Existentialism. His opponent was Rev. Henry Klocker, S.J., whose penetrating mind has won him national acclaim as an authority on Thomistic philosophy. The following pictures were taken at the debate.

Athletic Board

Although athletics are subordinate to the mental and moral development of the student, Regis College nevertheless does not overlook the relative importance and value of an active sports program. The members of the athletic board constantly strive to complete and to expand the sports program of the college. To this end both an intramural and intercollegiate athletic program are supported.

Under the able direction of the board, organized intramural programs are conducted in touch football, softball, basketball, golf, tennis, volleyball, and ping-pong. On the intercollegiate level Regis offers basketball and baseball as major sports; tennis, golf and skiing as minor sports. This well-rounded program, offered through the efforts of the athletic board, allows every student opportunities for physical development.

The Coach

HARVEY MOORE
Head Coach

In his fourth year as cage mentor of the Regis Rangers, Harvey Moore was faced with the toughest schedule ever to confront a Regis College squad. Before the season Harvey looked at the schedule and could but wonder as to the outcome. He saw names like Dayton, Niagara, Seattle, Cincinnati, Portland, St. Michael's, and Gustavus Adolphus.

When the season had run its course Harvey, looking back, could say that they came, they saw and they conquered their share of the "big names." The fact that Regis did not always come out on the long end of the score is not the point, nor does it matter too much.

What matters is that Regis is playing bigger name opponents. And the calibre of the play of the Rangers has improved with the calibre of the opposition. There were mistakes by the team and by the coach, but this is only natural as they too are human.

With the loss of three seniors, Harv is faced with the task of finding three replacements before he begins the next campaign. However, he still has the nucleus of a fine squad, and with bigger and better opposition the basketball fortunes of Regis are looking up.

This year Harvey also took over the reigns of the baseball team. Under his guidance the Regis Diamond Aces finished with a winning season.

ALL-AMERICAN BOONE INTRODUCED AS A RANGER

UP, UP AND AWAY
TOM HOOGERWERF

Tom Hoogerwerf, rugged Ranger co-captain, brings his famous jump-shot into action in opening game against Colorado School of Mines. Tom climaxed his college career with a burst of glory which saw his collegiate points-scored total soar to over 2,000 points. A great floor general, Tom was one of the big factors that acted as a steadying influence upon the young Rangers.

On the Crest of the West

KING OF THE PUSH-UP SET
TERRY SHEEHY

Terry Sheehy, sophomore center, trips in action against Gonzaga. Big Terry, hampered by a trick left knee, was limited in scope this year. However, when he was able to play, he gave a very good account of himself and gave some very good performances which were indicative of his great natural talents. If his knee does not give him any trouble next year, Regis fans can bolster their hopes.

THE THREE MINUTE MILE
BILL BOLLWERK

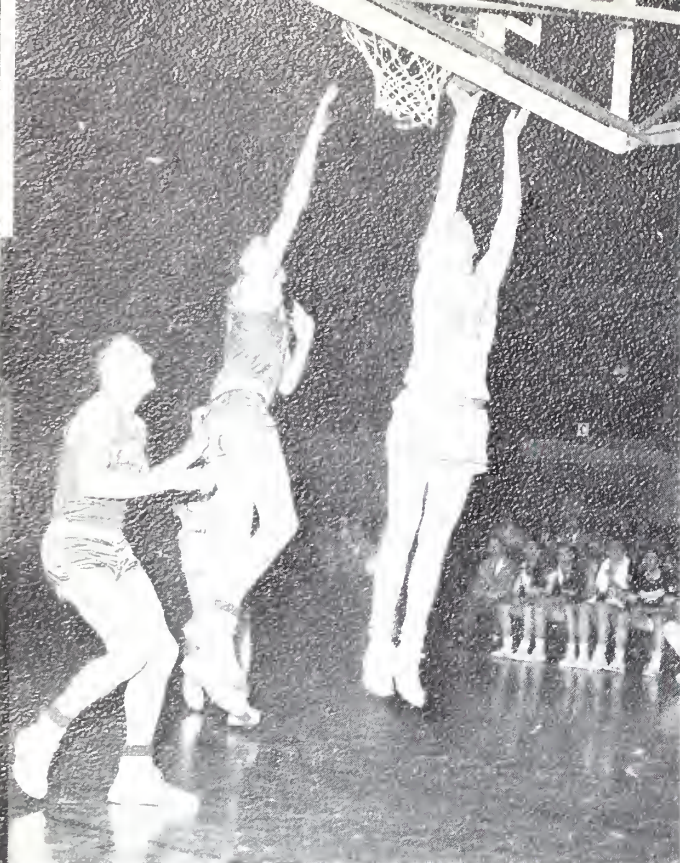

Bill Bollwerk, hustling junior guard, races after a loose ball in the Seattle game. This game against Seattle was a good chance for Bill to give Coach Moore a true picture of the scrappy and aggressive Bollwerk brand of ability, fight, and just plain guts. If he continues to improve as he has done so far, Coach Moore will have no choice but to use Bill regularly.

"... COME TO PAPA ..."
TONY RENDULICH

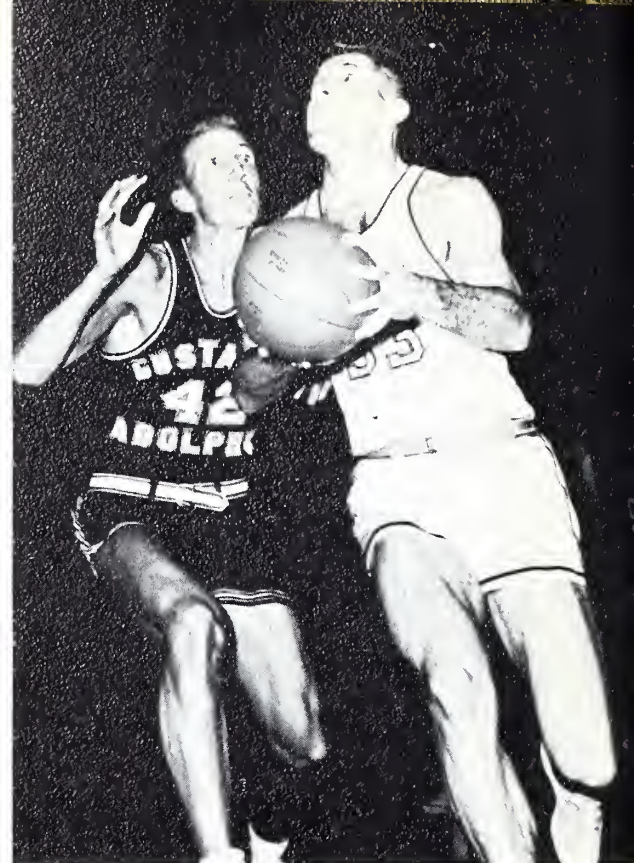

Tony Rendulich, senior forward, lunges for a loose ball in the Gonzaga game. His senior year capped a long and productive basketball career. His services were lost at the end of the year because of a broken ankle. Up to that time, he had improved his mastery of the Moore style of basketball skills.

LONG STRETCH
JIM BUTLER

Jim Butler, classy sophomore center, racks up two points for the Rangers against Colorado A. & M. Jim started off the season in great style, but was attacked by a serious virus infection during the Christmas holidays. Because of this, his efforts were hampered for most of the remaining season. Toward the end of the year, he began to shake off the effects of the sickness and fans began to see the Jim Butler that should be seen in action. Barring a recurrence of the virus, "Butts" should be a big factor in the Ranger fortunes for the next two years.

"... GET UP THERE ..."
BOB LINNENBERGER

Bob Linnenberger, a rugged center-forward alternate, strains to gain altitude against Gustavus Adolphus. Big Bob, a transfer from Oklahoma U., proved to be a big shovel in the Ranger back-board scooping crew. In addition to being a great help on the boards, Bob is a tremendous hustler, and a good scorer when the chips are down. Moore's Men should really feel his presence as long as Bob continues to put in his big guns for Regis.

BOONE FIRES FROM NO MAN'S LAND INTO THE NET

MEAN LOOKIN', AIN'T HE?
DICK ECKHARD

Dick "Spider" Eckhard breaks away during a game to add two more points to the Brown and Gold tide. Dick's real value doesn't exist on the scoreboard; rather, his great feature is his guts, fight, team spirit, and great personality, both on field and off. He is a tremendous player on defense and sticks to opponents in the same manner. Although he stands but 6-1, he is able to outjump almost anyone that should happen to be underneath the boards at the same time. A great hand is in order for a great guy.

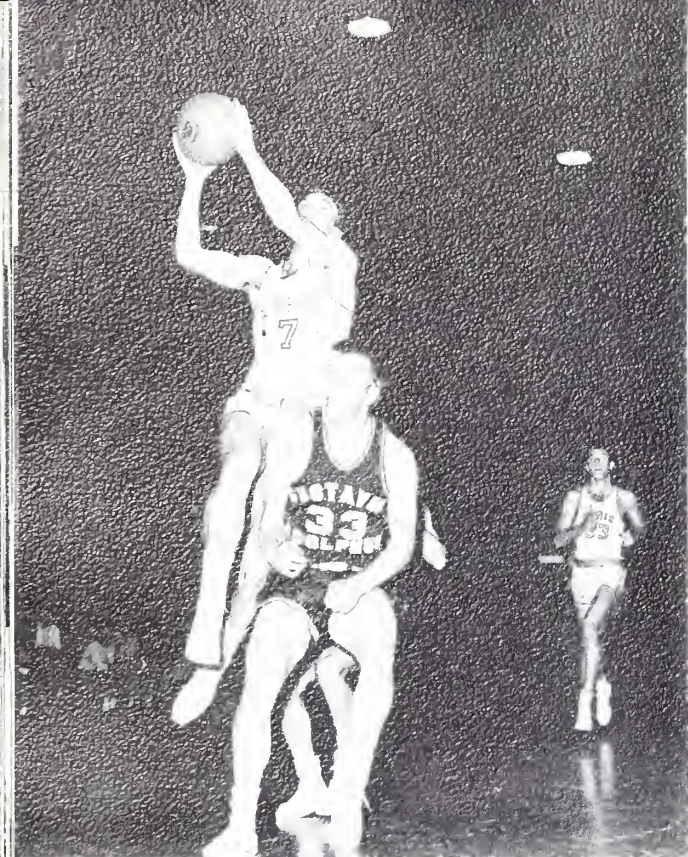

TOWER OF POWER
ALAN HOWER

Alan the Horse leaps high into the air to stamp his name among the Regis greats. This year, the big senior finished off his last year for the Rangers by making over 2000 in his four years at Regis. Alan is the co-captain of the Rangers and was the logical choice for the post. His talents can be summed up only in the annals of Ranger history. He is a deadly shot from close under or in the field. He has no peer as a backboard demon. He has tremendous drive, team spirit, influence over the team. In short, he can't be beat.

"... BUBBLE, BUBBLE, TOIL AND TROUBLE ..."

THE DIXIE CANNONBALL JOHN GATENS

John holds the distinction of having a jump-shot that could be compared to Dennis Boone's. That is only one of his many talents. He is what might be called a "Jekyll and Hyde" type of game. When he is off the court, he is quiet and almost shy; but when he is on the hardwoods, he is a real "holler guy." Even though he is a small man as basketball players go, he more than makes up for it in determination, drive, spirit, and all-around playing ability.

MODERN DANCE CLASS HERE INTERPRETS "FACE ON THE BARROOM FLOOR."

UP AND OVER TED SERMONET

Ted is another one of the well-liked imports from the city on Lake Michigan. "Sermo" fits well into the Moore brand of basketball which demands skill, speed, independent thought, and full utilization of one's talents. Big Serm was crippled during several of the games on the eastern road trip. Therefore, Coach Moore was not able to use him as a bulwark in the same manner as a drowning man seeks a chip of wood. Next year, Harvey Moore will be able to use Sermo more often if injuries do not hamper the big center.

DENNIS BOONE — ALL AMERICAN

Ranger hopes took a sudden turn for the better this year with the coming of the much-publicized Dennis Boone, late of Manual High School.

The entire student body had heard that Boone was good. The question that remained on everyone's lips was, "Just how good?" In his first game against Colorado School of Mines, Boone played a fairly good game and he netted 10 points for the Rangers. Things continued along for Boone and he averaged about 12 points a game until the game against New Mexico. On that memorable date of December 10, Boone exploded for 24 points against the Lobos.

After this, it was just a question of how many points would Boone score in his games. He scored so many that he broke the following records: Most field goals in a season—Boone 211, Highest average for a season—Boone 21.7, Most points in a season—Boone 522.

His all-round excellence as a basketball player won him berths on various teams of all-Americans throughout the nation. To name a few, we cite the following: Look Magazine—District 6, Associated Press—3rd team small college All-American, 3rd team Jesuit All-School; almost all opponent's first team against whom they played.

It has been a rather foolhardy practice to predict the basketball futures of current Regis basketball teams during the past three or four years. Nevertheless, with Boone and a crop of good juniors and seniors, Regis should play at least as well as, if not better than, they did during the preceding season. Let us just hope that the schedule (if we may call a seemingly impossible group of games by that title) will not swamp the ship of Moore's men in the oncoming year.

TOUGH DAY'S WORK

RANGER AT WORK

The Rangers started off the season in good fashion against a determined quintet from Mines. But the Rangers just had too much depth for the Miners. Tom Hoogerwerf, Ranger co-captain, paced Harvey Moore's men with 25 points. Jim Butler, sophomore center, was the surprise of the evening with his 15 points and his fine work on the boards.

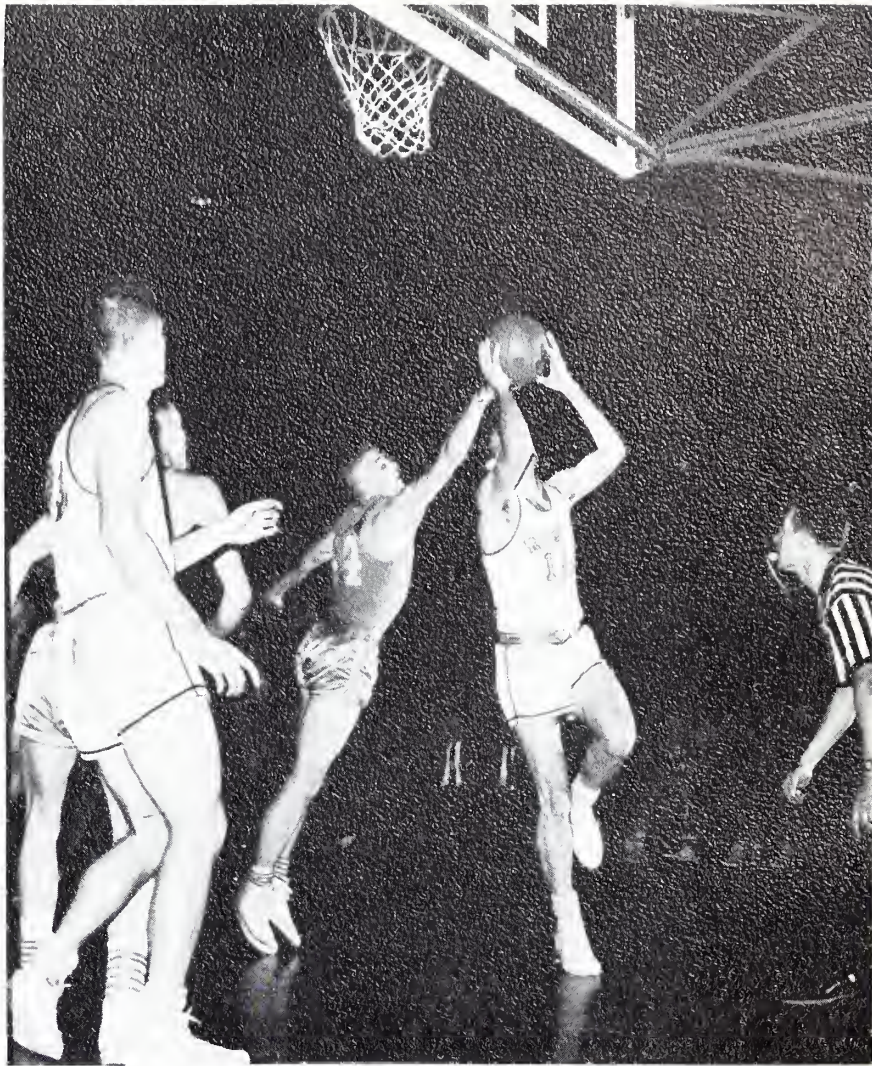

In the first game of their western road trip, the Rangers were able to come back from a first half deficit to nip the boys from Pepperdine College by a score of 72-69.

The next night, December 8, saw Regis stopped by a tough team from Loyola of Los Angeles. The Rangers just couldn't keep up the torrid shooting by Loyola. Bob Linnenberger was the Ranger ace for the night with his excellent board play.

On the way back from the coast, the Rangers stopped off in Durango December 10 to battle the New Mexico Lobos. Dennis Boone came into his own with a 24 point performance which helped the Rangers to victory, 79-75.

Monday, December 13 saw the Rangers beat Western State at the D. U. fieldhouse by a score of 81-77.

The following night the Rangers hosted Western State in the Regis gym. The Rangers, as a team, were fantastic from the field and connected on 41% of their shots. Bob Linnenberger was the big gun for Regis with 22 points. The score—Regis 101—Western State 79.

MAN ON THE MOVE, BOB LINNENBERGER

On January 5, the Rangers returned to action in rusty condition. Their opponents for the hassle were the Gonzaga men from Spokane. The game can be put down as something that just isn't spoken about. To put it briefly, the Rangers lost a 20 point lead in the last 10 minutes of play. Their downfall rested in the fact that they couldn't hit more than 1 field goal in nine minutes during the second half. Moore's men ended up at the short end of a 73-69 tilt.

Five days later the Rangers visited Alamosa to play Adams State. Hower scored 23 points as the Rangers avenged their Gonzaga defeat by tearing into their opposition and handing them a defeat by the score of 98-65.

January 13th must go down as a date when Ranger fans could point with pride to the whole Ranger team. Tiny Regis handed Seattle, ranked as the number nine team in the country, the worst scare that the Huskies had received all year. Regis rallied in the second half and almost overtook Seattle. But they just couldn't do it. Boone was top for the Rangers with 23 points. Bollwerk and Sheehy must also get their kudos for fine performances to say the very least.

The next night was St. Michael of Vermont's turn to face the Rangers. Boone put in a fabulous performance of 39 points and sent the Regions on to win 85-73.

Adams State was the next school to fall victim to the Rangers. They were followed by Gustavus Adolphus. The Rangers won by scores of 84-56 and 110-65 respectively.

SERMONET VERSUS ST. MICHAEL

February 1 marked the invasion of the Portland Pilots. The Pilots, highly ranked on the Pacific coast, were picked to slaughter the Rangers. But the so-called "experts" were in for an unpleasant joust. In the first game of the two-game Portland-Regis series, the Rangers, sparked by 37 points by the fabulous Boone, fought back from an eleven point deficit to close the gap fast. But the Rangers were too late and the final gun rang down the curtain on a heart-breaker score of 76-78.

The next day the Rangers took the floor with confidence. That confidence was justified in the opening moments of the contest. All of the five starters of Regis made at least 10 points. Boone again led with 31.

Several days later, the Rangers left on a seemingly impossible road-trip in the east. On the night of February 9 they faced the great team of Cincinnati. The Rangers got off to a good start and led for the first 30 minutes of play. But Cincinnati just couldn't be held back. The rough plane ride in which the Rangers had to land outside Cincinnati just seemed to overtake them at once. Cincinnati surged into the lead and the Rangers never caught them after that. Despite Boone's 34 points, the Rangers lost by a score of 81-96.

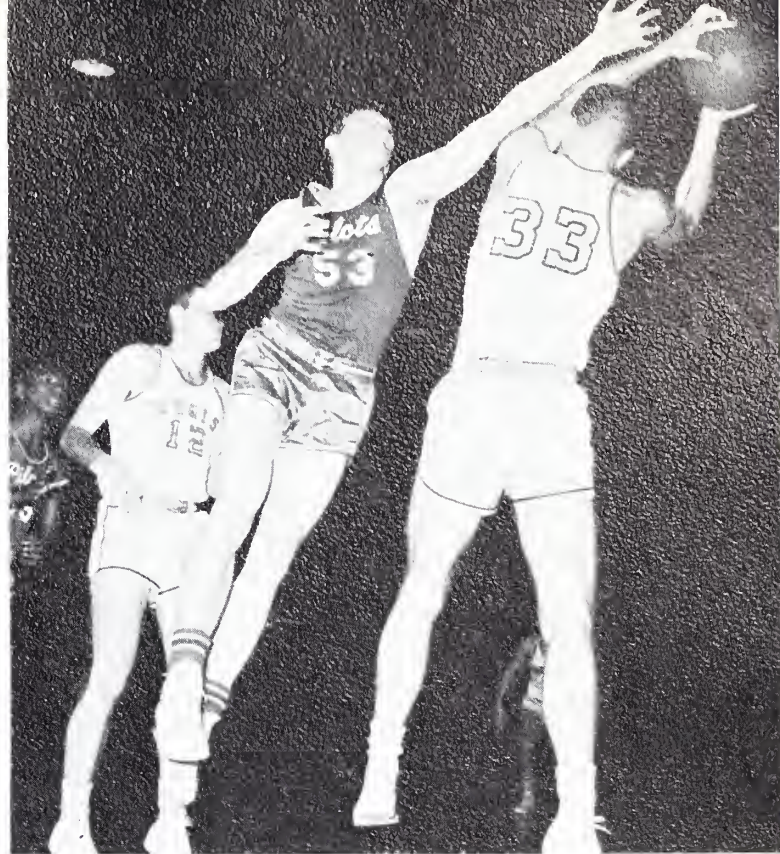

Two nights later the Rangers played Niagara. They were sparked by Boone's 29 points and Jim Butler's terrific rebounding against much taller opposition. But, Niagara's guns were bigger and the Rangers bowed in defeat, 70-92.

Two nights later the Rangers were led by Rendulich's 24 points to beat the cadets of West Point. That was their only winning game on the ill-fated road trip. Against Army the Rangers looked like the Rangers of old. But, toward the end of the game, exhaustion began to dog the heels of Moore's men. Their steps began to falter and their timing was off, to name a few things. But, aided by two timely field goals by Boone, the Rangers were able to pull the game out of the fire. Rendulich put in the finest performance of his college career as he scored 24 points and played like a dervish on the backboards as he snared almost all of the rebounds that came his way.

The next night saw the battered Rangers completely sapped of their strength. They were completely worn out as they fell easy victims to a strong team from Dayton. The Rangers simply had played too much in too short a time. They were only able to put up token resistance as even the incomparable Boone was able to lead the team with only 17 points, a poor performance for him.

Two nights later, the Rangers had yet another barrier to hurdle. They were the visitors to St. Louis where they played a fresh five from Washington U. Washington U. was really "up" for the game since it was the last home game for the Bears, as they are called. The Rangers were able to get an early lead; but in the second half, they were again overtaken by their old enemy, exhaustion. Washington leaped ahead with some fabulous shooting. The Regions pulled up again, but their flagging bodies had taken too much and they lost another heartbreaker by a score of 55-58.

JOHN GATENS

THE TIP-OFF

Regis 75--Colorado Mines 72, Texas Southern 80--Regis 71,
Regis 61--Air Force Academy 45

The Rangers came back from their disastrous road trip to play the gentlemen from Colorado School of Mines. However, on this game day of Washington's birthday, the Rangers were left without the second half of the Boone-Gatens backcourt combination. John Gatens was not permitted to suit up for the game because of the fact that he was campused. The Rangers felt the loss sorely. But Boone again came to the rescue and scored 26 points for the Regis five. This, along with the Ranger good playing helped Moore's men to beat the Miners 75-72.

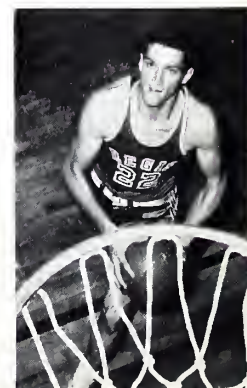

Two nights later, the All-Negro team from Texas Southern invaded the Ranger camp. The visitors proved to be just too tall for the beleaguered Rangers and thus Regis fell before the team that had been, for the last two years, the National Negro Collegiate championship team. Boone put in a 21 point game for the Rangers, but Regis went down in defeat by a score of 80-71.

On March 2, the Regis forces met the highly touted Falcons from the Air Force Academy. This was a game that would bring together two teams in Denver's so-called "dream game." However, the Regians this time had to play without their main offensive weapon, Dennis Boone. During the road trip to the east, he had severely wrenched his knee and was thereby lost to the Rangers for at least the game against the Air Force. As things turned out, the Rangers were able to get along without Boone as they rose to meet the challenge. In a game that was marred by much fouling and much booing, the Rangers had to slow down their blitzkrieg style of play and change to a slow group of patterns. The Rangers had no trouble beating the Falcons. Linnenberger was top man for the Regions with 16 points. John Gatens distinguished himself with his defense and his slick passing. The final score found the Rangers on top, 61-45.

In the first round of the NCAA small college playoffs, the Rangers passed the test by beating Wartburg College of Iowa. Boone got 24 points and Hower added 21 to the total as the Rangers squeezed past the Warts by a score of 88-82.

In the second round, the Rangers were not up to snuff and blew a 15 point lead in the second half. San Diego State tied the score with 39 seconds remaining to play. At this point, the Rangers called a highly disputed 6th time out. As a result, San Diego went on to win 81-78.

So ended the Ranger season of 1956-57. The season was not without its share of joy tempered by a share of woe.

JOHN CHAMBERS BEFORE JUMP

As a team unit, the Rangers engaged in three meets during the preceding year. In the first, at Winter Park, they placed second. In the second, against such schools as Arizona U., Idaho U., Nevada U., and others of that caliber, they were able to place a strong second. After returning from this meet at Alta, Utah, they returned to their last meet at Climax. In that meet they placed second against more of the same high-quality opposition.

During the interim between meets, the members of the team often skied individually in different contests. In these meets they distinguished themselves as athletes of no small merit.

Epilogue

It was stated in the foreword to the 1957 RANGER that these are indeed the best years of our lives, for because of them all the coming ones will be better.

As the importance and population of the western states spiral upwards, Regis is growing to meet the needs which will soon arise, as more and more young men approaching maturity seek the privilege of a Jesuit College education.

To accommodate the growing demands, the courageous Regis development program was begun. Included in the immediate plans are a new dormitory, student union, faculty residence, field house, library and science building.

Even as this is being written, husky suntanned men in blue and white coveralls are fighting the twin enemies of time and weather in converting the one-time dream of a new residence hall for two hundred students into a reality of red brick, glass and steel.

On the vast prairie that was once west campus, a new student center is beginning to take form, as man and machine struggle to make it ready before Christmas.

But while physical power continues to mold the elements of the earth into magnificent new edifices, mental power must continue to plan and administrate. The problems of financing, construction, architecture, campus planning and landscaping are a few of the many obstacles which were met and partially conquered in this year of 1957.

So also, it is seen that these years spent in planning, building, and development are the best years of Regis' life, for because of them, the coming years shall see more and more young men receiving a true education, one which develops the whole man—mentally, physically, morally, emotionally, socially.
